Downers Grove, Ill. — Consulting-Specifying Engineer proudly announces the recipients of the 2022 40 Under 40 award. This award is given annually to 40 nonresidential building industry professionals ages 40 and younger who stand out in a mixture of personal and professional aspects of their lives. To read a profile of each winner, visit www.csemag.com/40under40.

Candidates were nominated by a colleague or mentor and judged by industry experts based on nine areas, including their commitment to academics, their profession, personal lives and in their community. In the May online and print edition, Consulting-Specifying Engineer honors each of these young professionals, highlighting qualities that led him/her to continuous success, recent professional projects and personal achievements. Winners will be presented with their award at a ceremony in Chicago in October 2022.

“If you were to meet any of the 2022 40 Under 40 award winners, you’d likely get along with them immediately. They’re smart, innovative, dedicated and driven,” said Amara Rozgus, Editor-in-Chief of Consulting-Specifying Engineer. “Now in its 15th year, the 2022 40 Under 40 winners are more imaginative, focused and passionate than most professionals at any phase of their career, leading them to succeed in their respective professions.”
